

My mission is to help strengthen families.

If you are open to all of the possible ways to become a parent- you can and will OVERCOME infertility.

Camille T.C. Hammond, MD, MPH is the CEO of the Tinina Q. Cade Foundation. She is an expert on infertility education, advocacy and support. She has been published in the peer reviewed scientific literature and in newspapers and magazines. She and her work have been featured on television, news and testified to legislators on Capitol Hill about infertility related legislation.

She has also served as a keynote speaker and presented at scientific conferences and other programs. Through her work at the Tinina Q. Cade Foundation, she has hosted hundreds of education conferences for families sharing about different ways to become a parent and overcome infertility.

Dr. Hammond is the author of several books, including The Guud Book: About Infertility, and The Guud Book about Faith and Fertility. She is also the owner of the publishing house Guud Books about Tough Topics.

After an extraordinary medical journey gave Camille and her husband Jason, two boys and a girl, the couple decided to give back and help others still going through infertility. They started the Tinina Q Cade Foundation which, to date, has awarded 92 families with grants of up to $10,000.

Speaking Topics

Faith and Fertility

Some people think that if you love God and try to live "right" nothing bad will happen in life. Infertility can happen to anyone- including folks who live their faith. That said, families who struggle to conceive are not forgotten. Dr. Hammond will share about the ways to become a parent and about the biblical examples of families that struggled and OVERCAME infertility. She can also provide support to churches seeking to develop ministries to serve families.

Pathways to Parenthood

Getting pregnant and having kids should be fun and easy, right? What happens when it isn't? Sometimes having kids doesn't happen the "old fashioned way" but that doesn't mean that parenthood will not happen. Dr. Hammond will share about the multiple ways babies can be welcomed into a family, and identify local resources that will provide ongoing support and care with navigating through and OVERCOMING infertility.

OVERCOMING Infertility

Struggling to conceive does not mean that you are a victim and that you are not an OVERCOMER. Learn the ways to OVERCOME and stay encouraged as you navigate through infertility. From medical resources to complimentary care, to emotional support and opportunities to advocate and serve others, Dr. Hammond will share great information about ways to move through and beyond infertility and into parenthood.

Dr Hammond will customize a presentation that focuses on the interests of your group.
